

Natalie Heiring - The Artist

Natalie Heiring was born in Dubuque, Iowa to Dr. James and Ramona Heiring, the fifth child of ten children. Natalie received her elementary education at Saint Clement's School in Lancaster, Wisconsin.

Natalie showed an early interest in art, often completing art assignments her father would challenge her with as he worked on his own art projects. Her formal art education started at St. Mary's Academy in Nauvoo, Illinois under the guidance of Sr. Veronica Shunick, OSB. After receiving her High School diploma, she entered St. Ambrose University in Davenport, Iowa to major in Art Education.

Natalie has taught art to students at Sts. Peter and Paul Elementary in Nauvoo, Illinois, at Marquette schools in West Point, Iowa and is currently teaching at the Southeastern Jr. high School in Bowen, Illinois.

Natalie's artwork was first published as an elementary student when the Union Bank and Trust in Lancaster, Wisconsin used her work in their advertising. Most recently, she has been displaying her watercolor pictures at art fairs, in Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin and Florida. Natalie has displayed her work in single artist shows in Canton, Missouri, Lansing, Iowa, and Macomb, Illinois.

Awards presented to Natalie for her watercolor works have been an Honorable Mention at the Art in the Gazebo in Macomb, Illinois, and at the John Wood Community College Fall Art show.

Natalie's other interests include: sports, walking, camping, and working in other art media.
